

THE HERALD.

JNO. P. BARRETT, Editor.
CUTLER T. SUTTON, Associate Editor.
WEDNESDAY, MARCH 16, 1881.

FIVE ladies graduated in the St. Louis College of Medicine last week with high honors. What next?

GOVERNOR David Merriweather has consented to stand for re-election as Representative from Jefferson county.

MR. BLAINE'S appointment as Secretary of State made a vacancy in the Senate. Mr. Frye has been selected to fill the vacancy.

PRESIDENT HAYES' last act was to pardon a Kentuckian who was in the Illinois penitentiary for embezzlement of post-office funds.

DON'T throw away your overcoat. Vennor says we are to have two more snow storms and one more "cold dip." Is it time to cease?

Vennor says the spring will be hot and dry, the summer cool and wet, the fall open and fine, and the winter mild and but few snow-storms.

THE Senate refused to confirm 87 of the nominations to office made by Returning Board Hayes during the time he was drawing Mr. Tilden's salary.

THE Democratic State Convention of Michigan refused to fuse with the Greenbackers, made a straight Democratic platform and nominated a straight ticket.

LIGHT YOUNG, of the navy, and one L. P. Blackburn, Governor of Kentucky, are having a little dispute as to relative truthfulness. We do hope the kettle has not called the pot black in this case.

A YOUNG man of Henderson, with a larger stock of patience than anything else, perhaps, has just finished counting an ounce of Whitebury tobacco seed. He finds in one ounce the sum of 337,875 seed.

MANY, many years ago the present editor of the Caseyville Courier stood around and watched Sam Gaines play marbles. The Courier man wasn't large enough to play with Sam. Nor is he yet. How sad.

IN Nebraska the law making powers have concluded that if saloons and drinking shops must be licensed they must be taxed enough to pay for the licenses, paupers and criminals made thereby, and so have placed the license to sell liquors by retail at $1,000.

A COMPARATIVELY small number of changes are to be made in the various departments of the Government at Washington except in the postoffice department, which will be swept clean on account of previous mismanagement on the part of the Hayes officials.

BEN DEERING's Frankfort paper died, Ben Deering's Blue Grass Banner scarcely lived and now he has started another paper in Lexington known as the Derby Republican. If we were only religious we would dump ourselves down and pray to the good Lord to deliver the country from Ben Deering.

THE Illinois Legislature tendered a vote of thanks to Gen. Garfield for the appointment of Lincoln to the place of Secretary of War. We fear that it should at the same time have expressed its sympathy for the poor, dead people, at whose expense the said-to-be sappy young man was promoted to office.

LEADING members of both parties in New York have united in trying to find the forger of the Morey letter, which created such a turmoil last fall. Abraham S. Hewitt has given $100 to the search and they are going to "hunt the rascal down." They should take it before a Congressional committee and spend $20,000 as they have done with negro Whittaker's ears.

CENSUS bulletin No. 73 gives the number of males in the United States of 25,529,782, and of females at 24,614,281, or 881,298 more males than females. A certain number of this staff, although still young, is becoming terribly frightened at this state of things, and, like those of old, is enquiring, "Men and brethren, what shall I do to be saved?"

THE only reprehensible thing so far in the administration of Garfield is the speech made to the members of Hayes' cabinet: "I assure you, gentlemen, that it causes me sincere regret to part with your services." Garfield has been considered an honest man, but if this is not dishonesty, he does not deserve the respect of any one and if he dishonesty, how many people can respect him? None, certainly.

INDIANA, by the grace of God, the free use of money and the imported nigger vote, elected Garfield to the office of President of the United States, and now in the distribution of Cabinet offices and fat positions she does not get a smell. This is too bad. When a State is disgraced as was Indiana, it is the quintessence of political ingratitude to be spurned from the broad entrance to official preferment.

A SON of an army man went to the house of Mr. Veachel Flenor, of Butler county, in the night recently, and shooting him to the door attempted to shoot him. Finding out what was wanted of him he very naturally thought it prudent to shut the door. The mob then began firing on the house. One of the balls struck one of their own men on the other side of the house. They then left, taking the wounded man with them, but leaving his gun by the fence. Mr. Flenor recognized the gun as one belonging to one of his neighbors, Butler needs a judicious application of hemp and shot-guns.

DAVID DAVIS says that he will act in the future as in the past, i. e., as he pleases and according to his sense of right. This is all right if he does not suffer his mind to be biased by his former Republican associations.

WE see an advertisement of a "Butter Power" is some of our exchanges. The agent will consult his interest by staying away from Hartford. The butter, when you can get it, has enough power already to tumble a man forty feet on a dead level.

THE brave Boers of South Africa still hold out against the superior forces of the British army. It is a struggle for freedom, and the heart of every American should vibrate in sympathy with the people who are engaged in the glorious cause in that far-off land.

GARFIELD is a Christian, and it was hoped by a great many persons that we were to have a Christian administration, but in every account of the happenings of Washington you see that the affair wound up by a "glowing speech" from that arch-heathen Hob Ingersoll.

THE Bowling Green grocers have organized a protective association, the object of which is to protect themselves from those drummers who sell at retail as well as at wholesale, and to prevent the selling of goods on credit to those who are thought not to be perfectly good pay.

HERE is what the local editor of the Bowling Green Democrat says when he means powder: "That sometimes very useful, but more frequently dangerous, thing called gunpowder." Why, a Western Indian would shoot you half-a-dozen times before you could get all that into your charger.

OUT of the total of about $11,000,000 river and harbor appropriations, the Mississippi, the Ohio, the Missouri, the Arkansas and Illinois rivers get $5,532,000. These are rivers, whose improvement is a vast advantage to the country's commerce, and every dollar appropriated in that direction will tell.

OF all the public men who have figured in the history of the country for years past none are more worthy of the admiration of every one than is Allen G. Thurman, late U. S. Senator from Ohio. Faithful, honest, vigilant and efficient in the highest degree, no lover of the American people can think of his retirement from public life save with feelings of the deepest regret. Of him it may well be said, "well done, thou good and faithful servant." We shall long lack another to fill his place.

HAYES and his cabinet have dropped out of office, and it may almost be said, into obscurity. Hayes goes to his home in Ohio, Evans to New York, Devens to Massachusetts, Maynard to Tennessee, Ramsey to Minnesota, and Schurz, with a $200,000 dollar law-suit on his hands, re-enters the newspaper business in St. Louis.

GARFIELD is a member of the Campbellite church, but the way he "sits down" on his brethren is in no wise tame. One of them called on him last week and put forth his profession and denomination to induce the tow-boy to appoint him to a fat position. James smiled sweetly and told him that the Federal Government was a political machine and not a religious combination.

A CORRESPONDENT of the Louisville Commercial, writing from Lewisport, Ky., wants to know why an account of the killing of Rial by McAdams, in Hayesville, was never given to the public. If he will take the trouble to examine the columns of the Breckinridge News of December 23d he cannot fail to find an account in full of the tragedy. THE HERALD of January 5th gave the particulars in a brief manner, and if that was not giving it to the public, pray tell us what is.

Who started the ridiculous fashion of boys sitting in church with the girls? It would be more graceful for the boys to leave them where they enter the door. We'll bet a ginger cake a yard square and a foot thick that the fashion started in Henry Ward Beecher's church.—Elkton Register.

Who originated that ridiculous paragraph? Verily, I say unto you, he ought to be rammed into a Krupp gun and shot twenty thousand years into eternity where there are no girls to go church with.

The editor of the Hartford Herald should be committed to the hospital at once. It is a shame that he is allowed to run at large when afflicted with such a severe case of meekness, and that, too, in the face of the fact that they are considered very contagious. He has already communicated them to his paper in their original type.—Messenger and Examiner.

If you will read the HERALD of two weeks ago you will find that we had it years ago, but if you say we had or have them, "you lie, villain, you know you lie." And that's an end of it.

THE following clipping from one of our exchanges shows the great respect in which Senator Beck is held by the entire Senate. Any talk about retiring a man who has so much influence is absurd and is not indulged in by those who have the interests of old Kentucky at heart: "A Washington special says: 'About the last bill which became a law in the last Congress was one to refund to the State of Kentucky some $200,000 for arming, equipping, and transporting troops during the war. It came to the Senate about 3 o'clock in the morning of the day of adjournment. Beck moved its passage. The question was asked, 'Has the bill been considered by a committee?' 'It has not,' said Senator Beck. 'My colleague will bear me testimony that I have been busy for three days in Conference Committee on appropriation bills. I say, though, this bill is a just one and should be passed.' Upon this statement of the Kentucky Senator the bill has passed. The fact of its passage without a recommendation by a Senate committee is a just tribute to the respect in which Senator Beck is held for his honesty, for it was upon his personal indorsement alone it got through."

Be sure to read the article on our first page. Observer seems to know what he is speaking about, and it will pay you to read his article on education.

THERE is one thing the people of this country do not know—how short the step is from a paternal government to a paternal king. Precedent begets precedent. With fraud to seat one executive and formidable military display to attend the inauguration of another, attended with the dazzling glitter of a grand pageantry, there will never be a time when glory and pomp will not outshine republican simplicity and economy. Then comes a time with forty or fifty thousand soldiers and a dispirited right to the succession? Who does not know that that candidate will go in which can command the military? And if Congress disputed and delayed it would be obliged to yield to the dispersed by armed power. Let the masses tremble for their liberties.—Louisville Democrat.

MR. WATTEBSON, in an editorial in the Courier-Journal of late date, attempts a defense of Hon. Stanley Matthews from the attacks which he has been receiving from every quarter. This from a political standpoint was not expected of Mr. Wattebson, or to say the least, of a true Democrat. To us, the course of Matthews in the matter of the Louisiana fraud in 1876 is something which no Democrat can look upon with the least degree of allowance. A man who is, or who has been, so intimately connected with such disreputable transactions would not make a fit occupant of the Supreme bench and Mr. Wattebson knows it, although he pretends to believe that Matthews is innocent.

HAYES sent ten veto messages to the House during his term. He vetoed the silver bill February 28, 1878; the bill for holding a special term of the United States Court in Mississippi to try timber thieves, March 6, 1878; the bill to restrict Chinese immigration, March 1, 1879; the army appropriation bill, which the measure prohibiting the use of the troops at the polls attached, April 29, 1879; the military interference bill, May 12, 1879; the judicial expenses bill, because of restrictions touching the employment of marshals at elections; the special marshals' appropriation bill, June 30, 1879; the special deficiency appropriation bill, which was destined to have deputy marshals appointed by the United States Circuit Courts in the political parties, May 4, 1880; a bill regulating the appointment of special deputy marshals at elections, June 15, 1880, and, lastly, the refunding bill. Of these only the silver bill was passed over the Presidential veto. It will be observed that nearly every veto was against relieving the elections of partisan interference.—Courier-Journal.

KILLED AT LAST.
The Emperor of Russia Dead.
The czar of Russia was out last Sunday in his carriage, and on his way home was assassinated by the nihilists. The deed was accomplished by filling heavy glass shells with dynamite and throwing them under the imperial carriage. When the first one exploded it tore off the hinder part of the carriage, but no one was hurt save one of the attendants. On hearing the report and the cries of the wounded man the carriage stopped and the czar immediately alighted, when another shell was thrown, which exploded with terrific effect, tearing off his left foot and ankle, horribly mutilating his right leg, injuring his body and tearing the left eye from its socket. He was instantly taken to the palace, where he died in an hour and a half. The assassins were arrested and placed in prison under a strong guard. The czar was much loved by the greater portion of his subjects, and his soldiers actually worshiped him. The most intense excitement prevails over the whole of Russia, and a general uprising is feared. Our Government, as well as those of Europe, sent dispatches expressive of the general sorrow of the people on being apprized of the horrible event. The late czar's son will succeed to the throne under the title of Alexander III.

THE Man Who Borrows a Newspaper.
The subject of this notice was born a good many years ago of parents who might have been respectable if they had only taught their son the rules of common decency. In his earliest boyhood he was noted for his extreme littleness of soul, narrowness of mind, and conspicuous lack of purpose for good and a proportionate over-supply for evil deeds. He was the continual dread of all his peaceful neighbors, and nothing but his extreme cowardice ever kept him from the commission of crimes within the cognizance of the law. The same traits which marked him in boyhood still cling to him in his maturer years, and he is the same weak, good-for-nothing creature now as then, totally lacking the sympathy and fellow-feeling of the rest of mankind. As to such a thing as self-respect, he never had it, and indeed such is the composition of his physical and mental nature that he seems to have no desire for it. When he wants to borrow a paper, such is his characteristic meanness he will not go for it himself, but sends a child who is compelled and yet ashamed to call the wretch by the appellation of father. The child, with a seemingly innocent conception that there is something morally wrong in the action, goes with reluctance and seems to half hope that it will be refused, and if it is not, goes back with a lighter heart and smiling countenance until it gets within sight of its father's face, when it again assumes that peculiar look common to those who are forced to associate with and look up to persons who really are beneath them in the scale of humanity.

The man who borrows a newspaper to keep from paying the publisher for it ought to be, as he generally is, regarded with contempt and as a sponge on society while he lives, and when he dies, sad to say, the prince of darkness has no hole in all the vast lake of torment that is sufficiently bottomless into which to toss this abnormal specimen of degraded corruption—this morbid, rotten, fungous excrescence on the fair stock of human kind. There is no place created or uncreated, real or imaginary, in time or eternity, which is designed for him and he must content himself with the belief that though his only fate is annihilation and that after the most dreadful manner. Does this fit you?

An Honest Man.

Some time ago a notice appeared in these columns denouncing J. E. Chapman, of Madison, Indiana, as a swindler and dead-beat. Later developments have shown that we were wrong and, perhaps, a trifle too hasty in this exposing Mr. C., the circumstances of whose case are as follows: Some time during last summer we made a contract with him to do some advertising which he paid and when we called on him for the pay he had given a long list of references we supposed that they too were imposed on and concluded to give him a few pull which not only elicited an answer from him but also from several of his references, prominent among whom, was Hon. J. T. Brashers, Mayor of Madison, from whom a more honorable man certainly cannot exist. The writers of these letters seemed much surprised at the course pursued by us in publishing Mr. Chapman and the Mayor said that he would endorse him as being strictly honest. We then proposed to the Honorable Mayor that if he could endorse Mr. Chapman as being strictly honest he could certainly endorse for him to the amount of six dollars which was the amount of our bill. He then, like the jolly honest gentleman that he certainly is, sent us a check for the amount due and requested that we retract the statements made by us in regard to Chapman, which we most cheerfully do as we are convinced that he is a specimen of the noblest work of God, an honest man. As to Mr. Brashers, we feel like getting out and throwing up our hat which, by the way, is a last year's hat for he is one of those who is not afraid to use his purse to make good his word to a stranger, and, as a climax to his whole moral structure, is a true Democrat.

Will those papers who clipped our former article, please to set Mr. Chapman right before their readers? News received in the city this morning to the effect that Capt. Henry McHenry, of Hartford, Ky., had concluded to bring his military company to this city in June, to take part in the competitive drill on the 24th of that month, at the Zoological Garden. Of these only the silver bill was passed over the Presidential veto. It will be observed that nearly every veto was against relieving the elections of partisan interference.—Courier-Journal.

A Suggestion to the Republican Party of Ohio County.
Now, that the time is rapidly approaching when there will be a general scramble for legislative honors, when so many whole-hearted patriots are willing to immolate themselves on the altar of their country, for the beggarly mileage of five dollars per day and annulment, would it not be well for the Republicans of Ohio county to pause, and with some degree of concern, to contemplate the future prospects of their party? To the next Legislature belongs the Constitutional right to redistrict the State, and this right, unquestionably, will be used by the majority for party purposes. Does it not seem reasonable, therefore, to believe that such a disposition of Democratic majorities will be made as to preclude the possibility of Republican success for a decade at least? If, for instance, a Republican senator should be elected in the Senatorial district composed of the counties of Ohio, Butler and Mendenhall, and a Republican representative returned from each of these counties. It will be conclusive to the legislative majority that the three counties are permanently Republican in politics; there cannot exist the slightest doubt on the mind of any one that the Democratic legislature will hesitate to so manipulate the redistricting as to completely over-shadow the Republican majority in the district by attaching each county to a county whose Democratic majority is so pronounced as to leave no doubt of success at any subsequent election.

Political ascension would, then, unmistakably indicate that the true course for the Republican party to pursue at this time, of all others, is to refuse to have a candidate in the field for either Senator or Representative; and to either draw any they may have now before the people. The chances of Republican success are small at best for either position. Now would it be the wisest thing to do to throw those chances away, at a time too, when the slightest misstep may lead to future and irretrievable disaster? There never has been, in the history of the Republican party in Kentucky, a time when non-action augured future victory, as the present; if masterly inactivity ever had any significance this certainly is the moment when its observance is most emphatically demanded. Let the Democrats have a walk over at the August election. The logical result of this course will be to cause the status of the Senatorial district to remain intact, and leave for ten years at least, the chances of both parties to elect their candidates about equal; otherwise, should the Republicans succeed in electing their candidate at the August election, which may be regarded as indeed very doubtful, they will, at subsequent elections, be so overwhelmed by Democratic majorities as to absolutely obviate the necessity of their having a candidate thereafter in the field.

I submit it, in all good candor, to the good sense of sound thinking Republicans if it favors of the least political wisdom, to hazard the seeming advantage, which they at present possess. The election in this county of a Republican sheriff, last August, must be admitted by all to have been purely fortuitous, and not the result of numbers.

real superiority; but such adventitious circumstances may not present themselves again in a life time, and any action which is calculated to maintain the status quo, must redound to the ultimate benefit of the Republican party both in the county and in the district. It remains to be seen, then, whether the astuteness for which the Republican leaders are so celebrated, will not suggest to them that "a bird in the hand is worth two in the bush."

The writer has no ulterior object in view, but is reasoning solely from the logical aspect of the situation, and has submitted the question in a general way only, believing that "a word to the wise is sufficient."

A TERRIBLE ACCIDENT.

The Bloodthirsty Circular Saw Guts in Its Work of Death on the Foreman of the Hawesville Furniture Factory.
The horrifying intelligence reaches us from Hawesville that Mr. Henry Nicholas, the estimable foreman of the Hawesville Furniture Factory, came to his death last Saturday under the following terrible circumstances: He was busily engaged sawing out work at a circular saw, his perch being elevated above the implement. One of his feet chancing to slip, the unfortunate man fell full upon the rapidly revolving saw, and quick as thought the deed of death was accomplished. The instant the victim's body was quickly snatched him away, but it was too late. He survived his injuries but a few minutes. Mr. Nicholas was a good man, an excellent mechanic, a sober and industrious citizen, and leaves a wife and five children to mourn his awful loss.—Breckinridge News.

WHILE from Whitesville.
The farmers of this section are extensively engaged in burning plant beds. All are preparing for a large crop of tobacco. White Burley is the favorite. A six-years-old child of Gen. Sparks was burned so severely on the 23rd inst. that she died in a few hours afterward. Born.—To the wife of Curtis Moseley, a daughter. J. F. W. Communicated.

Editor Herald:
After reading Mr. E. C. Hubbard's article on poll-tax and your request for the opinion of others, I have concluded to give you my idea, and that is about this, that if a man has but little he can not pay but little since it has been said by Franklin that it was easier for a man to make one hundred dollars from one than he could make one from nothing. I hold to the idea that the poor man should not be burdened with a heavy poll-tax, but should pay something, say $1, which he could easily pay, as he has the full enjoyment of the rights of life, liberty and the pursuits of happiness. And a man that would refuse to pay $1 to keep up roads and bridges, should not claim the right to travel over them provided he was a man in good health.

A tax of 5 cents on the $100 worth of property would amount to $50 on a million; then how much would it take to release the delinquent list.

The fact are that measles is, and they are awful bad in this community, too. Quite a number of new cases this week. Moses Chapman, Jr. has measles and pneumonia. Dr. S. L. Berry is attending him. I guess he will be all right in a few days.
The sudden death of Finley Stevens caused considerable excitement and strange gossip in this neighborhood. I noticed in a recent issue of the HERALD a famous poem written by W. F. B., a native of this county. I wonder if it is W. F. B. of the Louisville Commercial. If so, I have not been advised of his return to this county through the columns of your paper. I know Warren was a writer of great ability, but did not know he ever indulged in poetical pleasantry.
Mr. Editor, how large is the Fordsville precinct? How many inhabitants has it? How many will it have ten years from now? How soon will it be depopulated? I notice from one to three deaths in each number of the HERALD. They will surely all be gone after awhile.

To be up with Rosine, the No Creek Sunday-school will open for the spring the first Sunday in April. R. A. Stevens, superintendent. Everybody is invited to attend.

A strict Medical examination is required before any one can become a member. The classification, according to ages, is so calculated upon the average expectation of life that a young man at a lowest rate of assessment will, in a life time, pay no more than an older man at a higher rate. Your permanent assessment rate is determined by the age at which you enter. viz: If then 18 to 30 years of age, $1.00; 30 to 40, $1.25; 40 to 50, $1.50; 50 to 55, $2.00; 55 to 60, $3.00. - The meeting under the auspices of Rev. J. S. McDaniel, pastor of the M. E. South, supported by Rev. J. S. Scofield, presiding elder, and Rev. B. F. Orr, of Owensboro, closed last Wednesday night, after a protraction of about two and a half weeks. The meeting was one of great interest from the beginning to the close, which was evinced by the large and attentive audiences present each night. The series of sermons delivered by Bro. Orr are spoken of by many as being the ablest and most convincing ever delivered in Hartford, while those of Bro. Scofield were full of pathos and practical utility. The result of the meeting was four conversions and six accessions to the church.

- Mr. F. M. Heverin is making quite an addition to his building on Market street. He has added a story below and a story above, making it quite a roomy building.

- We had the pleasure of a call from Mr. Ignatius P. Stetler yesterday. Mr. Stetler is one of the land marks of Ohio county, being in the seventy-seventh year of his age. He is quite spry for one of his age and has fine prospects for at least a half score of years.

- In account of the spelling match last week there was by accident an omission, which we regret. The first error was in the word misspelled by Henry Taylor. It was predetermined instead of determined as we had it. The next was the omission of the name of Miss Jennie Berryman. The original manuscript read "Miss Mary Rial came out for a trial but could not make herself capacible so retired and Miss Jennie Berryman followed, but General Lacer proved to be her conqueror from the contest." The hurry and confusion attendant upon being behind with our work caused the omission which was not noticed until the papers were off and mailed. We hope that Miss Jennie and Mr. Dee will pardon us for the error. By the way, girls, are you going to give it up or try the boys again?

Memoriam.

Died, February 15th, 1881, Mrs. Elizabeth Hines, wife of Simon Hines, aged 32. She was a native of Ohio county. She was an affectionate wife. She suffered very greatly for a long time before her demise from bad health. Peace to her memory.

Marriage Licenses.

Numerically, Hymen did not do such a land-office business in this as in our last report, but his list embraces some who have evaded him for a considerable time.

Largest Book Published.

This new edition of Webster's Unabridged Dictionary, just issued, is believed to be in the quantity of matter it contains, by far the largest volume published. It now contains about 118,000 words defined, and nearly 150,000 words and meanings not found in any other one dictionary. The biographical dictionary, just added, supplies a want long felt by the reader and student, and giving the desired information so briefly. Never was any one volume so complete as an aid in getting an education.

Escaped Jail.

Monday night, 7th inst., about 11 o'clock, four prisoners broke out of the Calhoun jail by picking through the wall. They went to Ballard's saloon and ordered drinks and got some to take with them and warned him against giving the alarm until they got started, and lit out. Alarm was given and pursuit made. Their names were Cap Jones, charged with assault with intent to kill; Bud Malin, burglary; Newton Frazier, to satisfy judgment; and the other fellow's name not known. Two of them, Newton Frazier and the unknown, were arrested next day at Sacramento. The others had not been arrested up to last account.

Military Hop.

Captain Henry McHenry gave his Company of Cadets a hop last Friday night at Masonic Hall. Each cadet displayed the gallantry of a soldier by sending a card and accompanying a little lady. The cadets were full uniform and the little girls were handsomely dressed in party costumes. Prof. Laidley's string band dispensed music, and both before and after the sumptuous refreshments the little folks passed the time in keeping step to the viol's twang. A large number of spectators were present to witness the occasion. During the evening the company appeared on dress parade and were highly complimented by those present. In this connection we will say that Capt. McHenry deserves much credit for his energy in organizing and drilling this Company, having them as he has, in so short a time, under perfect discipline.

In Memoriam.

Little Charlie Ford, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Field, died in Hartford, Ky., March 14th, aged five weeks and three days. The angels came and claimed little Charlie, a flower fresh from the hands of God; his form was so fragile and delicate that he seemed the heavenly creation of a dream. His pure countenance, unclouded eye, his rose-lipped cheeks seemed angels, who had wandered from paradise to this dim earth to fashion dreams of heaven. How that mother's life seemed wrapped up in that of her babe, and as she pressed him to her heart and gazed on his beauteous face with an affection which none but a mother feels, she might have been heard to say, "Why should I fear that he should be snatched from me?" But, oh! how vain are all human calculations. The days of that innocent were numbered, and ere two short months had passed he had fallen asleep and been transplanted to a heavenly garden to bloom forever and ever. How cruel seemed to angels, who had wandered from paradise to this dim earth to fashion dreams of heaven. How that mother's life seemed wrapped up in that of her babe, and as she pressed him to her heart and gazed on his beauteous face with an affection which none but a mother feels, she might have been heard to say, "Why should I fear that he should be snatched from me?" But, oh! how vain are all human calculations. The days of that innocent were numbered, and ere two short months had passed he had fallen asleep and been transplanted to a heavenly garden to bloom forever and ever. How cruel seemed to angels, who had wandered from paradise to this dim earth to fashion dreams of heaven.

"Thou art gone my sweet babe; no more shall I see thee smiling down upon me to gladden my heart." But ah, fond mother, do not repine; he has been taken from a world of sin and trouble to a fairer happier clime. Let your constant endeavor, henceforth, be to prepare to rejoice in that blissful abode whether he has gone. L. M.

An American Triumph.

Mr. D. P. This is certainly a great triumph for the American manufacturers. - Carrollton Journal.

Hurrah for Our Side.

Many people have lost their interest in politics and in amusements because they are so out of sorts and run down that they cannot enjoy anything. If such persons would only be wise enough to try that Celebrated Remedy, Kidney-Wort, and experience its tonic and revivifying effects they would soon be hurrying with the loudest. In either dry or liquid form it is a perfect remedy for torpid liver, kidney or bowels. - Ecchangers.

Another Candidate.

By a large majority the people of the United States have declared their faith in Kidney-Wort as a remedy for all the diseases of the kidneys and liver, some, however, have disliked the trouble of preparing it from the dry form. For such a new candidate appears in the shape of Kidney-Wort in the Liquid Form. It is very concentrated, is easily taken, and is equally efficient as the dry. Try it. - Louisville Post.

Attention Greenbackers!

As Chairman of the Greenback Labor Party in Ohio county, I hereby make a call on all Greenbackers or those in sympathy with the Greenback movement to meet in convention in Hartford on the first Monday in April, for the purpose of selecting a candidate for Representative in the next Legislature, and also to select delegates to the convention at Rochester, Ky., which meets April 9, to nominate a candidate for State Senator.

Obituary.

Little Eddie, son of Ben. F. and Sue F. Landrum, died Wednesday, Jan. 13, 1881, in the 5th year of his age. Eddie has gone to Heaven above. My heart's delight, my dearest one, To dwell with angels 'mid their love, Dear Eddie's gone, my darling son.

Eddie has quit his love and play And has gone home to rest from pain. I hope to meet him in that day And tell him to my breast again. He was my little prattling boy, Yet he is called away on high, He left with me his little love, And we will miss him day and by.

We miss our little Eddie dear, He was so near to us you know, Though he is dead he stays here. For nature has ordained it so.

A little time on earth he spent, Till God for him an angel sent, And then he left his clayey eyes, To wake to glory in the skies.

M. M. SMITH.

Beaver Dam.

March 14, 1881. Since my last letter many things of importance have occurred that are now too old to be of interest to readers of the HERALD. A change has been made in railroad agents at this point. Col. J. M. Doon retiring and Mr. Frank Turpin succeeding him as both agent and operator. Col. Doon had, up to the past ten days been agent at this office since the first train arrived here - near ten years ago. He from first to last labored earnestly for the interest of the company, and was always kind and obliging to those with whom he has business, as well as all other persons. He attended to his own business and never meddled with that of others. Many regret that he has resigned. Mr. Turpin is a genial, affable gentleman, and the company could put no one here who could be more generally liked. Frank has been here before and is well known. He is fully competent in both lines of his business, and we trust will make this his home for years.

David Pool has been erected by Remus Carter a handsome business house on Main street. Tichenor and Williams have succeeded Tom Stevens in the livery business. Mr. Barrass, bank boss at Taylor mines, is in Louisville in the interest of the company. Born - To the wife of W. L. Maddox, March - a girl. Also, to the wife of Richard Garrison, March 12, a son. Dr. John M. Berry was called in and acquitted himself with honor. It was the first case of obstetrics that the Doctor had attended since his return from the lectures, but it is said he went to business as if he had been in the profession forty years. John will win, for his brain, nerve and "vitality." Young men need encouragement and they will succeed. I was young once myself, and though the frosts of many winters have silvered over my locks, I still remember the encouraging words spoken to me in youth.

I. H. Baker has leased his farm and will move to this place.

Prayer Hallen, Will Cooper and W. W. Hooker, of Cromwell, were in town last week.

Dr. Vega Berry has moved to Cromwell, where he is permanently located to render assistance to those who may favor him.

The Beaver Dam dramatic troupe will give an entertainment in a short time.

The city duds have levied a tax and we will soon have pavements and macadamized streets. A street-car track is talked of from here to Hartford if the latter place will help us.

Farmers and gardeners are quite busy preparing ground.

But few looks have been sown. Wheat looks badly. Most of it is frozen out of the ground during the winter.

A telephone line has been put up from here to Taylor mines. We have communication from here across the sea now.

Estray.

From the undersigned, in Hartford, about three months ago, a young, red mule cow and sucking calf. Any one giving information in regard to the above-cow and calf will be paid for their trouble. F. M. HEVERIN.

Instead of calling the month by ridiculous old names, derived from the Latin, Puck would describe them by names that would suggest the most prominent qualities of the months. For example: January would be January; February, Squary; March would be Winduary; April would be Rainuary; May would be Buduary; June would be Warmuary; July would be Roastuary; August would be Broiluary; September would be Chilluary; October would be Colduary; November would be Frostuary; December would be Snowuary.

Rich boys are often spoiled and their energies sapped and undermined by luxurious habits, the too free use of money, and the lack of that discipline which comes from indigence. There are families which endure miseries untold because they live beyond their means - because they wish to dress, and visit, and entertain as neighbors do who have ten-fold their income. "Truly, man walketh in a vain show!" Of this narrow and vulgar ambition, a brood of sordid and unwholesome things are born. It is impossible that children shall develop symmetry of character in a house where life is a frantic struggle to appear as grandly as the occupants of the next one appear, the grandeur being all tinsel and vain show.

Don Platt's farewell: "It is my boast that I have done more to fetch this Government into contempt than all the subsidized pens and presses over the land engaged in its support. This is saying much, but not more than I deserve. For these ten years, at the very threshold of the Executive Mansion, that shelters a despotism more dreary in its course aggressions than any in Europe, and under the shadow of a dome that covers a den of thieves, I have punctured shams, exposed villains and held imbecility up to ridicule, regardless of the threats, assaults, slanders and abuse of the sufferers. I do not assert that our Government is the worst in the world. That of Dahomey is on a somewhat lower level. But I do say, without fear of contradiction from the thoughtful and dispassionate, that it is the meanest. The beautiful structure fabricated by the fathers like a stranded whale rotting in the sun - wolves and buzzards fattening on one end, while sharks feed in upon the other."

The Trigg county Democrat, whose editor is a member of the State Senate and who rides to and from the capitol on free passes, takes us to task in a half column article, because we asked him if he thought it right for a member of the Legislature to ride on free passes and pocket the mileage paid by the State. He never paid any attention to this question, but went off hithercocked about a matter that had no connection with it, and talked in a highly moral way about his honor and integrity, and that a man who was afraid of being bought by a pass ought not to accept one, and other fanfare of that sort, that sounds sonorous and well, but there was nothing in it, and no one knew it any better than the Judge. He knew he was making a sort of special pleading and fairly begged the question - no, he didn't do that, he just ignored it. Now, Judge, let up on that poppy-cock about integrity, etc., and give us a plain, categorical, unambiguous reply to the question: "Do you think it is the meanest, unwholesome, ought to ride on free passes

There is nothing that has occurred since our last month's report to give a more cheerful aspect to matters. Winter still holds on, and but little farm work could be done in the way of putting in and preparing for the coming crop. But few oats have been sown, and comparatively no ground has been broken for corn. The weather has been such as to retard the heavy breaking, to prevent the turning of tobacco beds, to interfere with the husking of the corn, &c. So that everything will be upon us at once in the spring. It behooves every farmer to have his tools in order, his seeds in proper trim, &c., so as to be able to take advantage of every day that is suitable for plowing.

Wheat.—The condition of the late sown wheat is deplorable. The earlier sown is doing fairly well, especially where put in with a drill. The same is true of barley and other small grain, while the later sown could not give a less promising prospect. It has been lifted to the surface by the frozes and thaws, and presents a dead appearance. In fact, much of it is dead. As indicative of its condition and appearance, the statement of one is, that it looks as if it could be swept up with a broom. We called attention in our last month's report to the necessity of using the roller in such state of case. The only hope of vitalizing it, when in this condition, is by bringing the roots in close contact with the ground.

Oats.—There will be an extraordinary breadth sown to oats this year, growing out of the failure to get in a full wheat crop last fall. Added to this will be all of the ground in which the late sown wheat will have perished.

Corn.—The corn that has remained out through the winter turns out to be much more damaged than was at first supposed.

From this cause, and from the extraordinary draw that had been made up on it for feeding purposes during the winter, the usual supplies for farming and household purposes will be greatly depleted. Indeed, in some parts of the State, it is questionable whether there will be enough to sustain the work stock through the cropping season.

Seed Corn.—We call special attention to the selection of seed corn. Too much cannot be bestowed in its selection. The corn crop will, as a general thing, be necessarily planted late, and in such case all must perceive the necessity of a good stand from the first. To what extent the germinating power of the corn that has stood out in the field may have been impaired by the low temperature of the winter cannot be told. All remember the facts with regard to the corn planted two years ago. There was perfect stand in all fields planted from corn that matured on the stalk, and was cribbed with the shuck on, whereas in fields planted from corn that had stood out in the shuck during the winter, there never was, perhaps in the farming experience of Kentucky, a more faulty stand. Many had to furrow out and plant over. This year it will do to take no risks on the seed corn we plant. Husband the time as we may, the corn crop cannot be gotten in more than once in good season, so that there will be no time for planting over.

Tobacco.—There are so many things liable to occur to upset all calculations with regard to this crop, that we feel warranted only in saying, if plant beds can be sown in proper time, plants sufficient can be had, and the proper seasons for setting are opportune, there never was such a crop raised in Kentucky as will be this year. The fancy seems to be exclusively for White Burley. It assumed an epidemic cast months ago, and has spread to every county in the State, and in its reach embraces every color, sex and condition. The tulip craze of Germany, the Morus Mutilalis fever in our own country, the desire of our girls for seal-skin coats since the purchase of Alaska, none of them are or were so all-pervading as the White Burley fever. We give this advice to all new beginners, and all old ones who have not raised this particular type of tobacco. Take the Farmers' Home Journal, the Tobacco News, or some good and reliable agricultural paper, and read everything you see about the culture and curing and sorting of White Burley. In all of these regards it has to be handled differently from the ordinary heavy varieties. The more fact of having White Burley tobacco is not going to secure a big price. The price turns upon the quality, and that turns on the matters indicated.

Life Stock.—In many instances horses and cattle are reported in fair condition, but apprehensions are entertained that the provender may give out. We venture to say that where poor they are full of vermin, and when in this condition no wet day can be put to more profitable use than by ridding them of them. We cannot after the state of case as presented in our last report with regard to sheep and lambs. Very many old sheep have died, and there cannot be more than two-thirds of a lamb crop. The wool clip will be light, growing out of the want of proper food for wintering the sheep. To the production of a good crop of wool, it is absolutely necessary that the sheep should be kept in a good, thrifty and healthy condition by having at all times a supply of proper food.

Clover.—Clover has been greatly damaged by the frozes and thaws. Much of it is killed entirely. In many cases it has been lifted six inches above ground by sudden frozes. Lucerne or Alfalfa is not liable to damage in the same way that red clover is, the latter having but a single tap-root of five or eight inches in length. The Lucerne or Alfalfa will also produce more food to the herd than the red clover, and is in all respects as good a fertilizer.

Fruit.—Up to this time there is a prospect of at least a good half crop of peaches. In some localities they are entirely killed, but from all sections of the State more or less are reported alive. The apples, cherries and pears were examined and found to be unharmed up to this date.

Orchards.—The season will soon again be upon us for planting orchards. We warn those who propose planting fruit trees against buying of Northern nurseries. While the trees prove to be the kind bought, the change of climate affects a change in the character of the fruit. In other words, the ordinary winter varieties, when procured from a Northern nursery, become full varieties in our climate. Buy your fruit trees from reliable home nurseries.

Bees.—Full half the bees are reported killed.

Gardens.—As gardens are shortly to be made, we make a single suggestion with regard to one of the staple vegetables—the Irish potato. It is very generally conceded that of all the varieties for both early use and late keeping the Early Rose is the best, and there is no better market potato. We have cultivated it from the time of its first introduction. It will pay better to plant Northern seed at almost any price. It degenerates rapidly in size and quality when planted from home-raised seed.

More Thorough Education.

The propriety of teaching every young person some useful occupation while attending school, or at least during school years, is again attracting attention. Young men who grow up in cities and villages are afforded excellent opportunities of acquiring a book education. But that alone does not qualify them to earn an independent living and become useful citizens. The many thousands of boys now attending school in cities and villages cannot all find employment as clerks, salesmen, merchants, lawyers and physicians.

Every young man, regardless of the pecuniary circumstances of his parents, should be trained to some useful occupation—should be qualified to earn a living with his hands if necessary. The public, however, cannot make provision for giving instructions in manual labor—in the mechanic arts, or in agriculture. That is something that the parents or the boys themselves must look after; and every school boy who tries can readily find an instructor in some branch of handicraft.

Boys from fourteen to twenty who attend school should spend from four to six months in learning a trade, or in work on a farm. They should not expect to be paid for their work, at least during the first and second years. City parents who can afford to, should send to the country during vacations, both winter and summer, where they will be instructed in handling horses, feeding stock, and in the cultivation of the earth; and, above all, where they will be afforded opportunities to think—opportunities which boys reared in a city seldom enjoy.

The walks of a professional life are already overcrowded. There are about three times as many competent clerks as there are clerkships, and competent salesmen are almost as numerous as customers. But no matter what may be the prospects, aims or expectations of a young man, his education is never complete so long as he is incapable of earning a living with his hands. Young men should note the fact that almost without exception eminent and successful physicians, lawyers, college professors, bankers, merchants and statesmen are skilled workers as agriculturists or in some branch of mechanism—Ohio State Journal.

Editing a Paper.

Editing a paper is a pleasant business—if it contains much political matter. If it contains much political matter people won't have it.

If the type is large it don't contain much reading matter.

If we publish telegraph reports folks say they are nothing but lies.

If we omit them then they say we have no enterprise, or suppress them for political effect.

If we have a few jokes folks say we are nothing but rattleheads.

If we omit jokes folks say we are nothing but old fossils.

If we publish original matter they damn us for a mixing selecters.

If we give selections, people say we are lazy for not writing more and giving them what they have not read in some other paper.

If we give a complimentary notice we are censured for being partial.

If we don't, all hands say we are a great hog.

If we insert an article which pleases the ladies, the men become jealous, and vice versa.

If we attend church they say it is all for effect.

If we remain in our office, attending to our own business, folks say we are too proud to mingle with other people.

If we go out, they say we don't attend to our business.

If we don't pay up promptly they say we are not to be trusted.

If we pay up promptly, they say we stole the money.

Entertaining Company.

I pray you, O excellent wife, not to cumber yourself and me to get a rich dinner for this man or that woman, who has alighted at our gate, nor a bed chamber made ready at too great a cost. These things, if they are curious, they can get for a dollar at the village. But let this stranger see if he will, in your looks, in your accent and behavior, your heart and earnestness, your thought and will, what he cannot buy at any price, at any village or city, and which he may well travel fifty miles, and dine sparingly, and sleep hard, in order to behold. Certainly let the board be spread and let the bed be dressed for the traveler, but let not the emphasis of hospitality be in these things. Honor to the house where they are simple to the verge of hardship, so that the intellect is awake and sees the laws of the universe, the soul worships truth and love, honor and courtesy flow into all deeds.—R. W. Emerson.

Don't leave to memory what should be written; it makes lawsuits.

Don't become security for him who waits for the sheriff.
